We work collaboratively and leverage our collective resources, knowledge, and connections to build networks of support for adult and child survivors and their families.

We design and orient practices, policies, programming, and organizational cultures that work in unison to center adult and child survivors.

3

We create true partnerships with survivors and prioritize their perspectives, safety, healing, and wellbeing.

strengthen connections between children and their survivor parents build protective factors for all family members

expand access to concrete resources

work with families' unique strengths, not only their challenges

identify and address inequities survivors may face, along with the impacts of institutional biases use relational and systemic strategies to motivate change for people who use violence
